Executive Search

With over 20 years of experience in the hospitality industry, backed by specialized training, I have developed recognized expertise in hotel management and team leadership.

My career began as a receptionist, and I quickly advanced to managerial roles within the Holiday Inn group, under the InterContinental Hotels Group (IHG). I then managed hotels and restaurants for 15 years, ensuring their operational performance and excellence in service.

At the age of 40, I took on the role of Director at an international hotel school, training the future leaders of the industry. I oversaw the creation of the school, the opening of its restaurants, and the daily management of the campus, a major project that I led for over two years. This experience allowed me to refine my skills in strategic management and talent development.

My career also taught me a key lesson: the quality of recruitment is a determining factor in the success of an establishment. A rigorous and targeted recruitment process not only ensures quality service but also sustainable profitability.

Aware of the challenges of recruitment in the hospitality sector, I founded AARH - Armelle AUGUSTE Recruitment® Hospitality, with the mission to provide hotel professionals with a high-value-added recruitment service. My goal is to simplify and optimize the search for talent while offering personalized support tailored to the specific needs of each establishment.

Today, I offer you international expertise, supporting your recruitment projects in the United States as well, helping you strengthen your teams with the best profiles".
